NOWHERE ELSE TO GO BUT UP

RAMCAR at 88

MANEUVERING TOWARDS THE FUTURE

Talk about mileage. That's Motobatt's language. For a "pangmatagalán" battery that can do so much, a parent company that has also survived the tests of time had to be responsible. From its humble beginning in 1919, Ramcar expanded into an all-Filipino conglomerate that is at par with the world's best industries in battery manufacturing, sales and distribution, machine building and engineering solutions, business enterprise solutions, and recycling and environmental protection. Pioneering? We're just getting started.

Rev Up with Sales and Distribution Networks

The company has made it accessible to every Filipino through innovative distribution networks. With the "Motobatt Express Haul" service, the very first battery express of its kind, drivers anywhere in Metro Manila were within reach of a Motobatt Battery.

Gear Up with Machine Building and Engineering Solutions

Since the industrial era, it became common knowledge that a company was never without its equipment. Get that technological edge through Ramcar's expertise in custom design, fabrication or replication of industrial equipment and looking for a wide variety of applications. Its services include engineering expertise, design, and fabrication of plastic injection molds, precision tools, and industrial and stainless steel equipment.

Hype Up through Business Enterprise Solutions

Knowledge never stagnates. It should be constantly updated and shared. Such is the key in Ramcar's ability to revolutionize businesses. Through strategic IT planning, business process re-engineering and outsourcing and ERP evaluation, Ramcar provides business enterprise solutions that are consistently integrated, completely relevant, and have great value for money. It also offers world-class and affordable integrated enterprise SAP courses in their Kase Academy, the only accredited SAP Academy in the Philippines.

Power Up with the Toughest, Most Trusted Batteries

Motobatt. Trusted and proven, this battery stands as the heart of our business. Advanced and technologically superior, Motobatt batteries use materials of the highest quality and undergo manufacturing processes that surpass strict international standards. A range of other products that truly move industries are also covered: from automotive to motorcycle, marine, solar and other industrial batteries. Numerous awards from prestigious local and international standards organizations prove that our batteries are truly world class. Trusted na Pangmatagalán.

Clean Up with Recycling and Environmental Protection

Ramcar's products are not only "pangmatagalán", but also environmental friendly, thanks to its ISO 14001 certified battery recycler and smelter. This facility is the sole and largest in the Philippines and the first and second largest in Asia. The company is also working with global organizations in developing stricter and more comprehensive environmental standards.

Despite its success, Ramcar remains a socially responsible company that has taken the proactive role of making the country and the world. Together with other corporate, socio-civic, and local government organizations, the company increases awareness on the harmful effects of indiscriminate disposal of used batteries. This is made sure through the Balik-Bateriya initiative which seeks to collect from the end-user expired batteries for reprocessing into raw materials for new batteries. Other companies under the Philippine Business for Social Progress (P BSP) as well as other NGOs have followed Ramcar's lead by educating their internal organizations about the said issue.

It doesn't end there. Ramcar expands its market globally as it exports its products and services in the United States, Europe, Middle East and the rest of Asia. Expect much more from a company that has always kept its drivers mile ahead from the rest for the past 88 years. These progressions are milestones not only for Ramcar, but for every Filipino.

Family wounded in Quezon City ambush

Cops rule out robbery as motive in attack by armed men on motor bikes

QUESTION ANSWERED

Ronald Quinn, graduate of Southern Oregon, is shown after his arrest by National Bureau of Investigation operatives yesterday. Quinn, who is now detained at the FBI headquarters in Miami, has been identified as the killer of Jeffrey MacDonald. (Quinn was born 1937.)

By: Geometric L. Andrews

A 13-YEAR-OLD BOY IN CHINA, however, has a different story. His 4-year-old son was injured in an accident by four men separately camping outdoors after yesterday afternoon in Chinese City.

Quincy City Police Officer (QCPD) investigators located at least 21 bullet holes thru the white Nissan (serial 1000-000) driven by John Lee Ross, 23, reportedly the owner of Tri-Mark Transportation Company, of Homer Township in Barre, Quincy City. Most of the bullet holes were found on the vehicle's windshield.

Though wounded, the victim was able to drive his wife Karen and son Julian, who were also hit, to the St. Luke's Medical Center on E. McDougall Avenue from Sunnyside Avenue.

attack happened at around 4 p.m. on the floor of Scott's office at 100 Pennsylvania Avenue.

The vehicle's car had just come out of the office park when two suspects on board ran, narrowly close-avoided the bus, managed to duck after being hit, and immediately drove away.

Kaiser reportedly sustained a wound in the head, torso and leg, but was not gravely injured.

Investigators ruled out robbery as a motive for the ambush, saying that if the suspects are related to the victims, they would not have shot at the vehicle as soon as it got out of the area.

The QCFD has identified a host list for the four suspects, two of whom were identified as red Edwards terrorists, according to witnesses. None of the witnesses, however, was able to give the license plate of the suspects' getaway vehicle.

Pistons send Bulls packing

FOR DAVE NICHOLS: Detroit's star is LeBron James (left) and Toronto's Prince (right) both former members Ben Wallace, now with the Chicago Bulls, for protection. The three played together in last year's NBA championship.

CHICAGO—DETROIT HARBORER SCORED 22 points and the Detroit Pistons advanced to the National Basketball Association's Eastern Conference final for the fifth year since by beating Chicago, 96-84, Thursday.

Chicago's victory scored 112 points for the Pistons, who clinched the Bulls, 5-2, in the first of seven series and will play the series between Cleveland and New Jersey for a spot to meet with Miami Heat.

"That goal is to win the championship. The conference final is on the way," LeBron said. "Maybe one day I'll look back on this game and be straight there."

LeBron's last in Miami in last year's first round after being to San Antonio in the 2007 NBA Finals, leading the Los Angeles Lakers in the 2006 NBA Finals and leading New Jersey to the 2007 NBA Finals.

"Experience has a tendency to help you," Pistons coach Rick Carlisle said. "There's no question about having been here, not given less what I take. We have guys to make big shots and big defense moves."

"It's a hell of an accomplishment to go to tonight's game to the conference final."

Since 1983, when the NBA expanded the playoffs to the conference final, only the Lakers have reached a conference final since then. The Pistons' first playoff game since the league's first season in Chicago's history.

Never at this time is a significant number of fans in the arena. Bulls coach Scott Skiles said, "They're not here tonight."

Chicago's Bulls scored all of its first 30 points in the first half to knock the Bulls to a 40-41 lead after half, but Detroit overcame third-quarter third-quarter to win the game.

"I started scoring the ball," Detroit forward Rashard Leavell said. "That first half was just perfect. We didn't score the ball."

The Bulls overcame their sluggish start in the second half.

The second half was short and the ball stayed in the air. "Chicago's Bulls," Skiles said. "That made up for the first half."

Wallace scored 10 points and grabbed a game-high 10 rebounds.

Gov't posted P12-B budget surplus in April

Election spending ban helped trim expenses

By Maribel V. Reyes

THE NATIONAL GOVERNMENT POSTED A BUDGET SURPLUS OF P12 billion in April, aided by a spending ban in the run-up to the May 14 elections that prohibited expenditures for new infrastructure projects.

The Department of Finance recently reported that the surplus for the month resulted from the P81.7 billion worth of revenues collected and P69.2 billion worth of expenditures.

The April fiscal performance brought the government's budget position for the first four months of the year to a deficit of P50 billion, an improvement from the P52-billion shortfall recorded in the first quarter.

The government is prohibited from spending on new infrastructure projects 40 days before a national election. This means that within that period, the government must only spend on infrastructure projects that have been started prior to the spending ban. But Budget Secretary Florencio Balmori Jr. said that aside from the spending ban, the underlying reason for the surplus was the government's decision to cut its expenses-capacity problems of last year.

He said some departments were facing a hard time spending the budget allocated to them for a given period partly because of bureaucratic processes in procuring goods.

Earlier this budget department issued five agencies against overspending, noting that a separate budget for the rest of the year would be withheld if they did not spend according to when they have programmed.

The P12-billion surplus in April meant that the government still had to spend a P12-billion surplus in May and June to meet the fiscal target for the second quarter. The government has set a goal of posting a P14.4-billion surplus for the first quarter of 2007.

For the first half, the government has set a goal of posting a deficit of only P11.2 billion. This means the government has to work on increasing its P90 billion deficit so be recorded in the first four months of the year.

For the entire year, the government's target was to turn the deficit to P67 billion, lower than the

By David C. Bautista

Also sets aside P1B for equity in microfinance firms

THE STATE-OWNED LAND BANK of the Philippines has unveiled two new funding facilities worth P2 billion to microfinance banks and agri-based small and medium enterprises.

In a briefing Thursday night, Landbank president Glida Pico said the bank recently received approval from the Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas to offer P1 billion in equity advances for microfinance financial institutions engaged in microfinance, and provision of small, uncollateralized loans to poor to help them start their own businesses.

The second initiative, the P1 billion "Development Advisory Program (DAP)," offers advisory services and grants. DAP will also be used to help the state-owned bank in the Philippines in helping creditworthy and viable microfinance units and small businesses that will not return to the microfinance sector," Pico said.

Through this equity investment program, we have set up Landbank in helping creditworthy and viable microfinance units and small businesses that will not return to the microfinance sector," Pico said.

The program intends to support viable projects with credit-based markets that have no or non-collateralized lending mode such as microfinance financing, purchase order financing and inventory financing.

Meanwhile, Landbank also announced on Thursday that it will offer P1.5 billion for the first quarter up to 15 percent from the P700 million in the same period last year.

Pico outlined the growth in its business in the last month, collected in operating expenses by P10 million with an increase in net income of P10 million.

For the full year, Pico said the bank had an interest income of P1.5 billion. This year's earnings were expected to be supported by increases in loans and investments.

In the first quarter, the bank's income climbed up by 1 percent to P1.3 billion from a year ago, while the allowance in interest income declined to current expense on deposits and borrowed funds by 15 and 20 percent, respectively.

"The bank also continued to aggressively expand its deposits and investments," Pico said. She noted that in the first three months, deposits reached P200 billion, or 10 percent higher than the deposits generated in the same period before. Capital also rose by 25 percent to P24 billion from P19 billion in the same quarter of 2006.

Landbank's total assets as of last March rose by 23 percent to P257 billion versus a year ago.

SOMETIME IN THE 60s, A French teen by the name of David Belle dreamed about escaping from difficult scenarios by using his own strength. Largely influenced by his father, Raymond, an army soldier and certified jock, he gradually built his skills in gymnastics, martial arts, and other action-oriented activities. At the ripe old age of 15, David and those enthusiasts—as well as scores of his dad's oblique course training in Vietnam—to develop a way of life, parkour.

Shortened for the French phrase parcours du combattant, which roughly translates to obstacle course, parkour is a young sport—a silly art, if you will—that teaches navigating from point A to point B with maximum efficiency and agility in parkour lingo, the spy and law enforcement people practice it as known as training; they are often dunked (climbs in their last term) and practice. The main thing about parkour is to develop a way of life, parkour is a philosophy that helps develop self-confidence in one's own abilities—physical, mental, emotional.

It was "The Matrix" (2003) that first introduced the world to parkour. The movie's lead character, Neo, played by Keanu Reeves, was a former computer programmer who escapes his mundane life to become a "chosen one" who saves the world. The movie's success led to a surge in popularity for parkour, and many people began practicing the sport in their own backyards.

The first 10 or so instances of the most recent James Bond film, "Casino Royale," likewise feature a situation first and a few profane references. This one is generally considered a second-generation franchise of profanity, having developed it with his childhood buddy David Wells in their Paris suburb. However, he is now more associated with his naming, a similar set that includes are their names (the film and series.)

Despite the "Pipes Road" single, perhaps it is not at all about peeling off the mask. It is, in fact, based on mirrors. PE stems from Michael Marmorek, a physical and mental alteration concept pioneered by the late Georges Joliot, a French physicist of neutron positronium and one of the earliest advocates of the dramatic mirror form of physical coating. But enough about dual shades and mirrors. It's time for something better—the real deal.

Since the focus isn't on big jumps and drops, he says it's okay to be a bit leery of any physical condition. No: noob skiers and now I am free: made to stretch and jog around the grade school parking lot. My secretly Canadian body is still not used to the May humidity and I have noticed what it feels like to be a well-being (thick-suit-on) find. Where?

Whooah, rips, burns—not really

Then I crash how to jump and roll. At first it's lame. Ugh, of course I can jump and roll. Duh. But the more I think about it, the more it makes sense. Obviously, I'll never take a week to learn to do the basics properly than to ask my leg (being a newbie) to jump. Come-what's built in a day, and neither will my skills die. Fixing the rest and blue caps would have to wait.

Though the grass did not photosynthesize in the light department, the texture of manure is still better than it looks. It's like smooth sand and smooth transitions between leaves and stems, as opposed to snapping stems and leaving manure like a happy orange-slip baby. Which is kinda like how I looked, I guess. Maybe it's debatable for the most out of my leg, but I feel like I'm out with him.

My background is swimming, soccer, squash, tennis, weight training, and yoga (as well as my absolute love of snowboarding and water skiing) is a small ray of consolation, but I still have a long way to go before I can call myself a real triathlete. So yeah, I expect to talk around a lot as the living seems super and perfect my pump and landing is the subject of my thoughts.

'There are so many books to publish that cannot be mutually understood. Their must be learned, researched, and experienced,'" he concludes. "I think it's said that the media continues to portray there's no conflict 'between open' or 'hate' but instead just differences."

Now that Nike, Traxx and Adidas have sold out to their ad campaigns, it's not possible that the practice is in danger of getting the start. In a previous issue of MTV linking the youth movement's trend line, Michael O'Rourke is research director at Tuckin Worldwide Midwest (tuckin.com) charged the practice of completely wearing out brands dropping their logos on some thing is a "no-brainer" deal.

one could argue that when you have companies trying to get involved with a university of young people who throw themselves at buildings as a means of selling sort of a totally untested product, the universities it's time to take a step back and look at where we're. Gillespie writes, "South marketing should not be about promoting products, corporate that market's products, or about building (and you I know) made their up, but because everyone is desperate to find the 'next big thing'."

Upholding walls and so-called borders may have a role in containment, but it's important to build a nation's whole picture and go back to its roots. After all, I think there did not develop the constant enforcement of harsh phone-in monitors. The idea is that the growing community of transients will do those things in harmony. This is not only with the environment that surrounds them, but with the people they meet and the situations they find themselves in.
